

Missionary of the Week

Going Into All The World

Ministry

Gospel Fellowship Association seeks to assist missionaries through collaborating with local churches.

Evangelism, church planting, & training of nationals leading to indigenous national churches.

GFA & Local Churches

Missionaries come from local churches. GFA understands that a person's ministry experience in the local church setting is vital preparation for his or her future labors in planting and assisting churches on the field. Churches are the ones discipling and training missionaries for future service.

Therefore we look to local churches to provide laborers for the harvest and work closely with the home pastor throughout the process of getting the missionary to the field and then handling matters that need counsel. We consider it a privilege to partner with and serve churches, who are sending missionaries as extensions of their ministries.

Serving Churches

GFA produces two publications on a regular basis to keep churches and individuals supplied with missions-related information. The Sowing & Reaping magazine is published twice a year and highlights fields, opportunities, prayer, ministry snapshots, and resources. The Dividend is published monthly for use as a daily prayer calendar.

Serving Churches

By providing accountability, GFA also serves churches. We make sure your money is going where you intended it to go! We receive monthly reports from our missionaries and can assure you that the missionaries you support are properly cared for and are doing the job for which they were sent to the field.

Serving Churches

We uphold a high level of financial stewardship and ethics. Support levels are based on current and projected living and ministry costs for each field, and GFA will supply to supporters current missionary support information whenever it is requested.

Ways You Can Serve through GFA

- Teens in missions
- strategic Internship Program
- Short-term
- Tentmaking
- Career
- Special assignment
- Church planting